The "Yellow May Campaign" is an initiative organized by the National Road Safety Observatory (Observatório Nacional de Segurança Viária, ONSV).

The aim of the campaign is to generate interaction between the public administration and civil society, and to mobilize the entire society to participate in the movement. This aim will be carried out by involving different actors such as government bodies, companies, associations, federations and civil society to take part in the campaign actions. The idea is to encourage the entire society to effectively discuss the theme, to build knowledge on the issue, to learn to avoid the potential everyday traffic risks, and to be engaged in actions in comprehensively addressing the full scope of traffic related issues.

The selection of May as the campaign month is justified by reflecting to its historic roots in traffic safety. May has been a benchmark for the worldwide traffic safety actions, since in May 11 in 2011 the UN decreed the Decade of Action for Traffic Safety plan (2011-2020). The plan aims at reducing accidents by 50% in Brazil and worldwide.
